The flowers blo med as fair, Will,
The stars shone just as bright,
For fifteen years ago. Will,
Was our wedding night.

Fifteen years ago to night. The wedding belis rang clear; While we passed down the broad whi And then were made one, dear.

"Sallie take thee, Will,"
(The words fell soft and low,)
"To share with thee all joy or sainess,
That we shall ever know." And God has been so good, Will, Through all the fifteen years; There has been sorrow, dear, But more sunshine than tears. And when through the billows fie caused us to go.
His loving care upheld us.
And the waters did not s'erilew.

He has given into our care, Five beautiful, brave boys; To train them for earthly battles, And for heavenly jors. To train each one into ii brave and noble man.

And now we have asked to-night Our friends and loved ones true, To celebrate our crystal wedding As is the custom to. And mid the good wishes, And the shimmer of the crystal al around, There is not a happier couple On this earth to be found
